Clearing the Air with Confession

One thing that can blind us to Christ's saving truth and make us vulnerable to the "bread-alone" temptation is self-deception. We don't like to face up to our weakness. We don't like to take full responsibility for our sins, for our habits of selfishness and our reluctance to change. And so, we deceive ourselves, making excuses. Maybe we put too much blame on someone else for our faults - passing the buck. Maybe we try to convince ourselves that because we aren't axe-murderers or terrorists, we're perfect saints. Maybe we just block out the voice of conscience and don't think about the unreformed parts of our life. The Church is too good of a mother to be satisfied with this kind of spiritual immaturity. She has us begin every Mass the same way: "I confess to almighty God... that I have sinned through my own fault..." God already knows our weakness and our sins. He knows how much they obstruct our spiritual progress, and how much we need his grace to overcome them. That's why he invented confession. In confession we can take full, personal responsibility for the times we have misused God's gifts. In confession we experience God's forgiveness personally, one-on-one, audibly. Most of us already know this, and we use the great gift of confession frequently. But we also know plenty of people who don't - and they are suffering deeply on the inside because of it. Maybe a word of encouragement, an invitation, a sharing of experiences from us is all God needs to bring them back and give them a fresh start. [Here you can provide information for the availability of confession and for your Lenten penance service.] Jesus wants to nourish our souls with his truth this Lent. Let's help him out. Let's do the one thing that he can't do for us: take a step in his direction, and help someone else do the same.
