A remarkable spontaneous picnic!

It was a beautiful day! My office mates sighed when they faced mountains of urgent files which chained them to their desks. Frustration began to seriously undermine efficiency. If the situation were to continue, there could be a general meltdown in the office.

Enter the Office Manager with a brilliant suggestion! “Let’s grab our lunches and have a picnic in the park!” Unanimous approval! The dozen or so highly stressed professionals made a quick inventory of their sandwiches, fruits, mini desserts and trekked outside to enjoy the beautiful weather. Quickly sitting down at two park tables, the group felt like toddlers who had just skipped naptime and ran away from their daycare. Within a few minutes, the group was transformed from frustrated to euphoric.

This mental image of a group surmounting their restrictions helps us to appreciate several aspects of today’s Gospel. Jesus instructed his disciples to distribute food and gather up the leftovers. Other aspects of this passage make us think of crisis resolution. In this particular passage, Jesus’ followers had gathered in a desolate area, which meant they were taking serious risks. Uninhabited territories were full of dangers and lacked the resources necessary to survive. Since Jesus was the reason for the spontaneous gathering in this place, he was responsible for the followers who had gathered to hear him speak.

By fulfilling his obligation, Jesus continued the tradition of God’s generosity which had blessed Abraham, his ancestor. This tradition is the basis of our Eucharistic sharing. St. Paul’s careful rendition of this tradition, which Christ continued, brings us to the Last Supper. This is much more than a simple story of loaves of bread shared with crowds. Christ’s actions were destined to be shared with those of his era and all future eras. God responds to our numerous needs. God brings order to chaos and extends a warm welcome to us. His teachings bring balance into our lives; his generosity is beyond our imagination. God extends multiple invitations which clearly indicate his presence in our modern world. Faith, the essential component in every interaction with God, is sustained by our sacred nourishment.
