"Francis, I was frightened the whole time." Believe it or not, the man who told me that was a war hero and he was talking about an incredible act of bravery for which he received a medal. So, do I think any less of him because I know he was afraid? Of course not. The truth is I admire him all the more. Somehow, he conquered his fears and did what had to be done. When I think of him, I remember the saying that courage is not absence of fear, but the mastering of it.
